

What is Sildenafil?

Viagra a trademark drug manufactured by Pfizer was approved by the FDA for Erectile Dysfunction. The active ingredient in Viagra is Sildenafil and considering its popularity and effectiveness over a million prescriptions are prescribed each year to treat Erectile Dysfunction.

Viagra and its functionality.

1 - Improves blood flow

Maintaining and sustaining the erection is not mundane. Millions of men have problem getting and retaining erections. Human body is the most complex machine and the lack of co-ordination between sexual arousal either physically or mentally and your penis is the root cause behind Erectile Dysfunction. The mechanism of action behind Sildenafil is to relax the muscles inside the blood vessels and allow holding blood longer. The enzymes are responsible to bring blood to the penis to make it erect and to hold it there until sexual intercourse is complete. Erectile dysfunction is caused due to the irregularities in enzymes and people either not collecting blood for erection or blood is not held in the penis long enough to complete intercourse.

2 - Sildenafil doesn't cause arousal.

Sildenafil does not cause arousal. It increases blood flow to penis and remain there while erect. The misconception behind the action of sildenafil has given the nickname "boner pills" but truth is far from accurate. Sildenafil does not cause a spontaneous erection. Sexual arousal and blood flow to penis both together completes sexual experience.

Sildenafil can be taken up to four hours in and it does stay active in your system for 4-6 hours and action will be been triggered when sexual arousal was to happen.

3 - Sildenafil makes sex more satisfying

Satisfying climax is the ultimate goal. There are many underlying health conditions which may contribute towards sexual dysfunction, but the good news is that with the advancements of science most ED cases are treatable. Concerned about sexual performance and that anxiety, Sildenafil has proven benefits for firmer erections, and satisfying climax for their partners.
